badger food is also available commercially from CJ WildBird Foods. Sweet foods such as cakes, honey, jam and syrup are loved by badgers but can cause tooth decay and so should be given only as an occasional treat and then in very small quantities. Milk or meat scraps should not be fed to badgers. What else might badgers do in my garden?

I want to address this issue because a lot of non-beekeepers land on this site looking for ways to kill bees without using pesticides. This is good news because it shows that people are becoming more aware of the dangers of pesticides to our environment, children, and pets. Conversely, it's bad news because it shows that many people are not aware of how important bees are to life on Earth.
